DataSys joins Bay Cove Human Resources for a Pearl of an Evening

Marlborough, Mass. – May 17, 2007 – Bay Cove Human Resources, Inc. welcomed friends, volunteers and supporters to their 4th annual ‘A Pearl of an Evening’ event and benefit auction held at the Fairmont Copley Plaza on Thursday, May 17. Hosted by 7NEWS co-anchors Frances Rivera and Randy Price, the evening honored champions of Bay Cove’s mission to improve the quality of the lives of individuals and their families who face the challenges of developmental disabilities, aging, mental illness, and drug and alcohol addiction. The event celebrated the year’s achievements made toward accomplishing that mission.

A private, not-for-profit organization offering highly specialized services and leadership to thousands of men, women and children, Bay Cove has been a customer of DataSys Corporation since 1999. DataSys President Lisa Daigle was appointed to Bay Cove’s Board of Advocates in 2005 to help promote Bay Cove’s visibility in the community.

For the fourth year, DataSys was a sponsor for the event and pledged a monetary donation to finance two classes – including textbooks – for clients at Bunker Hill Community College as a part of the evening’s live auction. Says Lisa Daigle, “Each year, I look forward to supporting Bay Cove’s mission and honoring the contribution of so many selfless individuals. The heartfelt gratitude of Bay Cove’s clients serves as a reminder of the ways that corporations must form a partnership with organizations such as Bay Cove.

According to Marion Neirintz, Bay Cove’s Director of Development, Marketing and Public Relations, “Because of corporate partners and sponsors like DataSys, Bay Cove’s annual Pearl of An Evening raises vital funding to support its important mission. These critical services reach about 16,000 clients each year and are provided to about 100 different program sites throughout Greater Boston and southeastern Massachusetts.”
