DataSys Reception Honors Ten Years of Client Loyalty

DataSys toasts its clients and business partners at the company's tenth anniversary party

Marlborough, MA — November 17, 2005 — DataSys welcomed staff, clients, and business partners to its ten-year anniversary party to thank them for business over the years. The event invitation and atmosphere reflected the watchwords that have characterized its longstanding relationships: commitment, trust, partnership, service, and success.

The party was a lively event. Thanks to associations dating back over a decade, the 100+ guests who walked into the reception felt right at home. Says DataSys President, Lisa Daigle, "Oftentimes, our interaction with customers centers around their use of Great Plains. In today's hectic business world, it's a challenge to find time just to relax with clients. The party gave all of the DataSys team a great chance to connect with everyone and show how much we value our relationships with them."

The privately held company, which has over 200 implementations under its belt, has an industry-high retention rate. Its client list includes public and private companies, along with over 40 organizations in the health and human services arena. According to Hilary Croach, Chief Information Officer at Bay Cove Human Services, "When we first started working with DataSys in 1998, we chose the company because it responded with a cost-effective solution that fit our particular needs and provided room to grow. Now, eight years later, the DataSys team does more than respond. The dedicated and expert personnel take a proactive approach to ensure that our employees are extremely productive and that we get the most out of Great Plains."

DataSys credits its own success to the benefits its clients have attained with the Great Plains solution. The company has earned the Microsoft President's Club Award every year since its founding in 1996. It has also won Microsoft Business Solutions Pinnacle Awards – for Innovation and for Excellence in Teamwork. DataSys is widely regarded as a top partner for Microsoft Business Solutions in the New England area, and its staff has participated on many Microsoft and Great Plains advisory boards over the years.

DataSys places emphasis on teamwork and quality, and the anniversary reception also recognized the contributions of its staff. Says Daigle, "We have an unwavering commitment to finding and retaining people with the rare combination of interpersonal skills and expertise in Great Plains technology, integration, and customization. We are marking much more than ten years of customer achievements. We are celebrating the satisfaction of working with our clients as a team to achieve success on both ends."
